

A photograph of a large group of black and white patterned moths, possibly a species of hawk moth, clustered together on green leaves. The moths are densely packed, with many overlapping, creating a textured, almost solid mass of their wings. The background is dark, making the green leaves and the intricate patterns of the moths stand out.

OUTROS
SABERES

coordenação de João Pedro Barreiros

ATLANTIC

na página anterior, excerto do trabalho artístico de Robert Zhao Renhui

OUTROS SABERES

coordenação de
João Pedro Barreiros

A CIÊNCIA E OS OCEANOS

João Pedro Barreiros

DÉCADA DE INCERTEZAS, QUANDO TANTO HÁ PARA CUMPRIR NO CONTEXTO DO OCEANO

Ricardo Serrão Santos

TINY HOOK SIGNALS END OF THE LINE FOR HONG KONG'S FISHERIES, AND SO MUCH MORE...

Yvonne Sadovy de Mitcheson

EVOLUTION OF THE BLACK SEA AND FISHERIES CONSIDERING ENVIRONMENTAL CHANGES AND ANTHROPOGENIC IMPACTS

Violin St. Raykov

RECONCILING THE DEVELOPMENT OF MARITIME ECONOMY AND A SUSTAINABLE USE OF NATURAL RESOURCES IN ISLAND TERRITORIES: CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES ON RÉUNION ISLAND (WESTERN INDIAN OCEAN)

Sébastien Jaquemet

ZOOGEOGRAFIA DA ENDÉMICA ICTIOFAUNA DE CABO VERDE

Rui Freitas

CETÁCEOS... ESSES DESCONHECIDOS

Luís M. D. Barcelos

DESCARGAS SUBMARINAS DAS MASSAS DE ÁGUA SUBTERRÂNEAS INSULARES

Francisco C. Rodrigues e Paulo F. Silva Borges